FROM THE MAYOR

First two months of term a whirlwind of activity

By Jesse Whipple

As I approach the two month mark as being your new mayor in Mesquite Nevada, I continue to be even more excited about our city. Each day I learn new things about the place I've lived in for the majority of my life. We tend to stay in our own circles in life but this new job has given me the opportunity to step outside of mine and see so much more of our city.

These past two months have been extremely busy and exciting for us. The Parade of Lights through their efforts collected over 20,000 pounds of food that will stay here in our local food banks as well as the fun and entertaining parade.

The women's golf club was able to raise over $23,000, which they donated to the local cancer society. Those are just a couple of the many charitable activities that have taken place in town. We are so lucky to have such generous people living in this city.

There have also been many fun events to attend. The car show was a great success, and the balloon festival was wonderful as always.

A big event for the city was the grand opening of our new skate park. The turnout was incredible and the kids have been thoroughly enjoying it since. It amazed me the skill of so many of the riders and the tricks they were able to perform. The designers and builder did a great job of making it a place where riders of all levels could enjoy.

I would like to thank our parks and recreation department, as well as our other government officials for making it happen.

We have much to look forward to. Our hotels and casinos have been busy remodeling and expanding and continue to do so. Our community theater and schools have theatrical performances coming just around the corner.

The art center continues to have events and classes for all ages. There are too many good things to mention here but I will try to update you with as much information on the great opportunities available in future articles.

While all is not perfect here in our city, it is a great place to live and we will continue to work together to make it even better.

It is my honor to be a part of your team as we work toward that goal.

Jesse Whipple is mayor of the City of Mesquite.

Mesquite Western Roundup scheduled for Feb. 21-22

Mesquite Monthly

The 18th annual Mesquite Western Roundup will have a new home this year. This locally popular show will grace the stage of the Virgin Valley High School Theater at 820 Valley View Drive, on Feb. 21 and 22.

This theater is capable of seating many more people than the community theater, so organizers hope that no one will be turned away. Please plan on coming and filling the seats.

It is always a fun evening. This year's show is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Feb. 21 and 1 p.m. on Feb. 22.

Kenny B, the piano guy, will provide the pre show music as you enter the theater. Many have heard Kenny play locally and have marveled at his repertoire. Leo Black, another local man, will be this year's Master of Ceremonies. Black still dabbles in cattle ranching, and we will depend upon his good humor and speaking skills to guide us through the evening.

Robin Arnold will be this year's featured musical entertainment.

One-time resident of Mesquite, Arnold grew up in Roy, Utah. He has been singing and reciting cowboy poetry for over 45 years.

His versatile performances include special tributes to artists like Willie Nelson, Waylon Jennings, Merle Haggard, Johnny Cash and Elvis Presley.

At this year's Mesquite Western, Roundup he will do his very special tribute to Marty Robbins.

The Mesquite Western Poets will take to the stage to provide their insights, reflections and accounts of various aspects of western life.

Returning this year, Farrell Bott will bring his many years of on-the-range experience to the stage.

BT Buckland, using his involvement with cowboy action shooting as inspiration, will present some of his poetry.

Having spent many years on an Idaho ranch, Steve Campbell will regale the group with verse from his past.

Jim Parsons will return with a couple of new poems written just for this program.

Kathy Smith will once again delve into to her family's pioneer past for her presentation.

Russ Westwood, the longest standing poet in the Mesquite Western Roundup, will present the style that won him the championship buckle at the National Cowboy Poetry Rodeo.

Each year the group receives comments that the show was even better than the year before. Organizers invite everybody to come to see if this will once again prove to be true.

Tickets are $15 per person and are available online at event.eventgroove.com/event/Mesquite-Western-Roundup-104793 or at Daniel's Chocolates and IKA Greens. Tickets will also be sold at the theater box office one hour before the show for cash only. Perhaps the easiest way to obtain tickets in advance is to visit mesquitewesternpoets.com and use the link on that site.

New skate park opens with successful ceremony

B: Breven Honda

Over the last eight months, a new skate park has been constructed at 100 Woodbury Lane, by Virgin Valley Elementary School and adjacent to Mesquite Blvd.

On Jan. 17 and six weeks ahead of construction schedule, the Mesquite Athletics and Leisure Services Department held a ribbon cutting ceremony for the new, all-wheel skate park, called “The Skate Yard.”

Kids of all ages and adults feeling young at heart were in attendance for the ribbon cutting event.

“I think it was a huge success,” Athletics and Leisure Services Director Nicholas Montoya said of the ribbon cutting ceremony on Jan. 21. “I can’t believe how many people actually showed. I knew it was going to be very popular, but not to that extent. I mean ages of teeny, tiny to 40-year-old men out there skating on the skate park. It was pretty impressive.”

The new skate park comes after a series of improvements to the town, like the new pickleball courts.

Montoya said the new skate park is able to attract the youth in a town where it is only the beginning for more places to go.

“There’s more amenities that the city has for all ages to do,” Montoya said. “I think we’re just touching the tip of the iceberg here, going down the road of new programs and events. We got the pickleball courts going in, we got the batting cages, we got the trail system, the skate park. We’re working with regional transportation, on walkability studies to get more downtown traffic and everything.”

“What I like about the location is that when I picked it, it’s middle of Mesquite. You can get anywhere you want from right there.”

The discussions for a skate park began nearly two years ago when the idea was put on the local Community Development Block Grant list.

Prior to breaking ground in July 2024, there were things already in place. That included the City of Mesquite already owning the land. In addition, there were bathrooms and lights that were there.

As a result, it led to the skate park being the primary focus.

“We could concentrate more money to the actual skate park so we can make it bigger and better,” Montoya said.

Trade West Construction organized the project and Civil Science were the engineers and designers on the project.

City Mayor Jesse Whipple, along with Council members Wes Boger and Paul Wallace were in attendance for the ribbon cutting event. Council members Karen Fielding and Kevin Parrish wanted to attend but had prior commitments.

Montoya said he received positive emails from city officials, both past and present, including former Mayor Al Litman.

“They all sent emails saying, ‘Hey, this is great. Happy to be a part of it,’” Montoya said. “Even the previous mayor and previous Councilmen sent emails to me tell us how excited they are about this.”

> See PARK, Page 9

So, they might not be Councilmen and the Mayor anymore, but they're still excited for the City of Mesquite. They really care."

The park is open to those with skateboards, scooters, bikes but not motorcycles and similar items.

Since the opening of the new skate park, Montoya has traveled to the new facility from time to time.

Although there is no direct person watching the facility, like a lifeguard would at a pool, Montoya is hoping that more people take precautions, like wearing a helmet.

"I've gone by there a few times every day just to check it out and basically see how many people have gotten hurt. But no one's gotten hurt. Knock on wood because there was a lot of people there that were not wearing helmets," Montoya said, especially during the ribbon cutting ceremony.

"I'm just nervous because it is skate at your own risk. We do want you to try to wear helmets, elbow pads, shin guards, knee pads and stuff like that."

As people become more aware of skate park safety, Montoya said this is a place where children have the possibility of growing into future stars because of the new skate park in Mesquite.

"Just seeing those little, teeny kids as faces, they weren't even going down the ramps," he said. "They were on their little bikes; they were happy to be there and seeing what's going on. Those are possible future Tony Hawks."

MSG making final arrangements for spring season

By Breven Honda

The Mesquite Senior Games Spring Season is now one month away.

Preparations have hit their final stride for Mesquite Senior Games President Sandy Tudor and rest of the board members and event directors.

"We're ready to go," Tudor said on Jan. 22.

The first event of the season is Table Tennis on March 8.

Due to website renovations, registration for each event opened on Jan. 20, which was delayed by five days from its original target date.

However, the website is in a position for teams or individuals to sign up on their own.

"We've got it adequate so that we can register on it," Tudor said. "It's not pretty, but it's functional. That's what we were working for because that's how you register is through our website. So, you can register online."

Those looking to sign up can go to the Mesquite Senior Games website and click the "Events" tab to find the specific sport or event they want to participate in.

Outside of opening registration, there has been some minor issues in getting the new site rolling.

“We went to a new web host platform, so we basically had to completely rebuild the site,” Tudor said. “It wasn’t one of those where in some instances, you can cut and paste from the old website to the new website. We didn’t have that luxury with this one, so we basically had to input all of the information.”

That has led to Sports Director Shawn Edwards, Vice President Beth Caplinger and Tudor to put in information and get feedback from the rest of the board to ensure the content is correct.

“We had everybody reviewing it so that we don’t have stupid typos or anything like that in it,” Tudor added. “Everybody’s been involved in getting the new website functioning.”

After nearly 48 hours from the beginning of registration, Tudor reported that there were more than 50 registrations across the different events.

As registration spots continue to roll in, the Mesquite Senior Games is also putting the finishing touches to the box truck the organization got last summer.

The box truck is scheduled to appear at nearly every event, in addition to holding the track and field supplies for that event on March 29.

“It’s great. We scrubbed the inside. Got it all cleaned out,” Tudor said of the box truck. “I believe (Board members Marge Mongolo and Krista Kilpatrick) went in and they painted. There were three sets of upper cabinets in it. So, they went in and they painted those so that we’ve got most of our stuff in there.”

For most of the spring sports in March, beginning with table tennis, everything is going to plan.

Golf is a little bit different this year because there will be both the contests, in addition to the tournament the next day.

Tudor said the golf tournament the Mesquite Senior Games put on last October was vital ahead of the next event in a few weeks.

“We were pretty confident on how that one worked, and then we’ve always done the golf skills, so we haven’t really had an issue in getting both of the events ready to go,” Tudor said.

Following the bowling event on March 15-16, it begins a seven-day stretch with five different events, beginning with the history tour and the fitness hike on March 22 and ending with track and field on the 29th.

Because of the experience that the board and the event directors have been through, Tudor does not feel much pressure heading into the Spring season, especially when five sports are scheduled in a one-week stretch.

“No, everybody’s very excited to get these games going. So, it’s not a question of having to motivate anybody,” Tudor said.

In addition to getting those to register for each event, the Mesquite Senior Games is also looking for volunteers to help at each event.

Caplinger, who is also the volunteer coordinator, has begun reaching out. For those who have not volunteered during a previous Mesquite Senior Games event and want to can contact the organization by email, phone or on Facebook.

Tudor said volunteers are vital to support the event directors at each event.

“We can’t run any, and I mean any of these events without volunteers,” Tudor said.

“I believe Beth has put out, in addition to the ‘Save the date’ flyer, she has sent one to all of the everybody on our volunteer list to let them know that the dates are coming and what we’re going to be looking for.”

MOTOR MANIA

Mesquite Motor Mania took place at the CasaBlanca resort on Jan. 17-19. The annual event is a partnership between Mesquite Gaming, the Mesquite Resort Association and the Las Vegas Cruisin’ Association.

The three-day event will feature roaring engines, slow drags, and burn out competitions, as well as open header cruises and special exhibitions.

Planning for long-term care: Adapting to a changing landscape

By Ron Bird

Long-term care (LTC) is an essential topic for individuals and families looking to secure their financial future. With the rising costs of health-care, planning for extended care has become increasingly important.

However, many may not realize that traditional long-term care insurance policies are no longer widely available. This shift has left many wondering: how can I prepare for the potential expenses of long-term care?

In recent years, the landscape of LTC planning has evolved. Traditional long-term care insurance, once a common option for covering nursing homes, assisted living, or in-home care, has become largely unavailable. High premiums and the financial risks to insurance companies led many providers to exit the market, leaving a gap in options for those seeking coverage. Fortunately, a new solution has emerged to address this critical need: indexed universal life (IUL) insurance policies.

HOW INDEXED UNIVERSAL LIFE INSURANCE CAN HELP

Indexed universal life insurance is a flexible and innovative financial tool that combines life insurance coverage with the potential to accumulate cash value over time. What makes IUL policies particularly attractive for long-term care planning is the inclusion of riders that allow policyholders to access their benefits early to cover LTC expenses.

For example, if a policyholder needs assistance with daily activities such as bathing, dressing, or eating, the policy's LTC rider can provide funds to cover the associated costs. This ensures that individuals can afford quality care without depleting their savings or burdening their families.

Another advantage of IUL policies is their dual purpose. Unlike traditional LTC insurance, which operates on a "use it or lose it" basis, IUL policies offer the assurance of a death benefit for beneficiaries if the LTC benefits are not utilized. This makes IUL a more versatile and appealing option for those who want to protect both their long-term care needs and their legacy.

WHY NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT

As life expectancy increases, so does the likelihood of needing long-term care. According to recent studies, 70% of people over age 65 will require some form of long-term care during their lifetime. With costs continuing to rise, planning ahead is more critical than ever.

Indexed universal life insurance policies can provide peace of mind and financial security, but it's important to act early. Premiums and coverage options are more favorable when policies are purchased at a younger age and in good health. Consulting with a financial professional can help individuals explore their options and create a plan tailored to their unique needs and goals.

TAKE THE FIRST STEP

Long-term care planning doesn't have to be overwhelming. By understanding the options available and adapting to changes in the marketplace, individuals can take proactive steps to protect their financial future. Indexed universal life insurance is one of the most promising solutions

The goodness of God

By Christopher Wall

The goodness of God is often questioned by those who reject Him. The argument goes something like this: "If God is all-powerful, He cannot be all-good because there is too much evil in the world." Or, "If God is all-good, He must not be all-powerful since He would surely stop evil."

This dilemma has long troubled skeptics, but even Christians, while not verbalizing it, often wrestle internally with doubts about God's goodness. Let us consider three key biblical principles that shed light on this issue.

First, Scripture makes it abundantly clear that humans are not in a position to dictate what is logical, good, or reasonable to God. As the Creator, He is sovereign and free to act according to His will.

The Bible states, "Whatever the LORD pleases, He does, in heaven and on earth, in the seas and all deeps" (Psalm 135:6). God's response to Job reinforces this truth: "Where were you when I laid the foundation of the earth? Tell Me, if you have understanding" (Job 38:4). Similarly, Paul writes in Romans, "But who are you, O man, to answer back to God? Will what is molded say to its molder, 'Why have you made me like this?'" (Romans 9:20).

Simply put, Scripture does not give us the prerogative to question God's decisions or His goodness. He is infinitely wise, and we are finite.

Second, God's ways are higher than ours. Isaiah reminds us, "For My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways," declares the LORD. "For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways" (Isaiah 55:8-9). While we may not understand His purposes, this truth should bring peace, not frustration. Trusting God's infinite wisdom counters the prideful notion that we can fully comprehend His plans.

Finally, life is not about us. This is a hard truth for us to accept, but Scripture is clear: everything exists for God's glory. Paul declares, "For from Him, and through Him, and to Him are all things. To Him be the glory forever" (Romans 11:36). Human history and theology are centered on God, not humanity. This focus is not divine narcissism but an act of love. As God glorifies Himself, He blesses and sustains His people. We live downstream of His glory, finding joy and peace in His purposes (Psalm 16:11).

When we grasp these truths, we can begin to see the goodness of God in all things. God's goodness is not diminished by evil; rather, it is magnified as He works all things for His glory and our good (Romans 8:28). The sooner we embrace these truths, the more we will experience peace, hope, and worship in every circumstance.
