Mesquite honors woman with century-plus long legacy

By Breven Honda

More than a 100 years ago, Anne Martin ensured the women in Nevada, including in the Virgin Valley, had a voice.

However, her voice came during a time even before women had the right to vote. Because of Martin, she led the way for women in the Silver State as the President of the Nevada Equal Franchise Society. As President, Martin organized campaigns, rallied communities all across the state and marched in parades.

That led to women earning their chance to vote in the state in 1914, six years before the 19th Amendment was enacted.

Her legacy continues to live on, especially in Mesquite, more than 11 decades later.

On Aug. 27 and one day after Women's Equality Day, the Anne Martin Memorial Plaque was unveiled in the Women's Suffrage Plaza at the Women's History and Culture Center.

Those in attendance for the plaque unveiling also included City of Mesquite Mayor Jesse Whipple and Director of Athletics and Leisure Randy Laub.

Laub, who helped getting the plaque set through his department, said it was honor just being part of the event.

"I think it's pretty significant just over the years with women's rights and their ability to be able to have a positive effect," Laub said. "(Women's History and Culture Center Founder Jean Watkins) totally signifies what that is. She's amazing.

"They got some really cool stuff over the last several years, different events that have happened. So, it means a lot to me that I've been able to be even invited because I think it says a lot for women's history."

Including Whipple, there were those who spoke about Martin and the impact she still has today. The keynote speaker was Dr. Deanna Beachley, Professor of History and Women's Studies from the College of Southern Nevada.

Whipple said getting to hear the different speakers was moving because of how they are able to connect with Martin and her legacy.

"It was very inspiring the things she did," Whipple said. "She came from a little bit of money which helped, but she took that and used it to go and make a huge difference in the world. Very admirable what she did and clearly, a strong, intelligent woman that fought for what she believed in."

Even Whipple spoke about how Martin's impact can be connected to the different generations today and how they play similar role to Martin, providing that influential impact.

Explorer program gives youths a look at aspects of fire fighting

By Breven Honda

Having the chance to explore a new job or hobby can lead to the best domino effect, if taken and things go the right way.

The Mesquite Fire and Rescue Department has an opportunity just like that.

On Sept. 13, the local fire department hosted a meeting for their Explorer Program for kids and young adults aged 15-21. This explorer program gives young people the opportunity to learn about what firefighting is like as well as dive into emergency medical response.

"The whole goal of the program is to grow kids to get their interest going," said Mesquite Fire and Rescue Department Captain Robert Ceja.

There were about 30 people, along with their families, in attendance to learn more about the Explorer Program as a handful signed up.

"We had a good turnout," Ceja said. "Ended up signing up an additional seven explorers to the program."

"The Explorer program is an introduction, so the kids can actually get a chance to see what it's like to be a firefighter and potentially, run some medical calls. I think it's a great opportunity. I know we have a few part-timers and full-timers (on the fire department staff) that were once explorers that now work with us."

During the meeting, which took place at Fire Station No. 3, Ceja took them on a station tour, including going behind the building to the training grounds, explaining what the program entails.

Although the participants need to be at least 18 years old to earn different certifications, there are ways to replicate different situations involving fire rescue and medical response without needing those certifications.

"Everything that we can do that we as firefighters are required to and train on, they will be allowed to do so: cutting up vehicles, practicing search and rescues," he said. "They can't go inside a live fire on call each environment because they're not certified to do so, but we have smoke machines that we use to simulate fire conditions."

"We also teach them how to cut up cars using what the people call 'The jaws of life,' which is the extrication tools and equipment. Basically, anything that we can do, they'll be taught to do so as well. Live fire inside a structure can be very dangerous. While we train to do so, it takes a lot of knowledge and supervision even for us to do it."

Because these kids are as young as 15 years old, it means that high school kids can participate in this program.

Ceja said participating in the Explorer Program can be the precursor to discovering different opportunities down the road.

"This is just one avenue that they can explore," he said. "We do EMS and fire, the EMS Park, and then branch out to maybe a nurse. They can be a Certified Nurse's Assistant (CNA) that could potentially go to medical school. They can be paramedics if they want to. They can branch out in many different fields, in the fire. in the EMS field. As far as the fire field, we do have working relationships with Beaver Dam Fire, who does a lot of wild-land firefighting. So, there's that avenue there as well."

On the flip side, having members participate in the Explorer Program can lead to having a growth in numbers with experience in the fire department, once they become of age to be part of the firefighting staff.

Remodeled Veterans Memorial Park unveiled

By Breven Honda

On Sept. 4, the City of Mesquite held a ribbon cutting ceremony for its new park playground.

Located at 501 Hillside Drive, the remodeled Veterans Memorial Park Playground gives kids and families the opportunity to enjoy life in the community.

“We opened it about a week before the ribbon cutting,” said Randy Laub, who is the City of Mesquite Director of Athletics and Leisure Services. “I live up in that area, so I go by there multiple times a day, and every evening there’s probably 10, 20 kids down there playing. So, I think it’s been well received.”

After about 25 years, the playground needed to be fixed and up to date.

As a result, the renovation process to remodel the playground began in late June and into early July. With funding supported by the City Council, the green light was shone for renovations to begin.

“We went in, tore the playground out, redid the PIP, which is that rubber surface underneath the playground,” Laub said. “We took all that out, put a new chain structure up, redid the playground (in August) and did the new PIP.”

In addition to Laub in attendance for the ribbon cutting ceremony Mesquite Mayor Jesse Whipple and City Manager Martine Green.

Outside the demolition of the old playground being in-house funds, the cost to renovate the new playground was around $75,000.

The next goal for the park is to have lights with the seasons changing from summer to fall and daylight savings around the corner next month.

“We’re getting ready to install lights underneath the shade canopy because it is starting to get darker,” Laub said. “Those should be done (by the beginning of October) to lighten the playground up, one, for the kids to play longer, and two, for safety.”

When it comes to the name of the remodeled playground, the Veterans Memorial Park Playground, it is way to honor those who have served our country.

“It tries to uphold what the veterans stand for and that’s progress, a little bit of freedom for the kids,” Laub said. “When they have events there for the veterans, we want to keep that clean. We want to keep it up to date. We want to keep a safe environment.

“The veterans have that eagle down in front of the Canon area with those pavers, with the markers that some people have bought for donations. If we can do our part to keep it clean and safe, to enhance the veterans’ area, that’s what we’re here for.”

In addition to the events that honors the veterans, the park is also home to family-friendly events.

Laub said as long as the playground remains in good condition, the future remains bright.

“As long as that playground is in good shape over the next, hopefully 15-20 years, I think it’s endless,” he said. “When we have a lot of people come in from family reunions, they reserve that parking lot. We have a lot of softball tournaments and that kind of stuff that fold down into that playground area. And so, I think it’s non-stop.”

In addition to the remodeled playground, the Department of Athletics and Leisure Services also redid the tennis courts in August. That project included stripping down the courts and resurfacing the four courts on Hafen Lane.

MSG prepared for fall slate, starting on spring season

By: Breven Honda

The Mesquite Senior Games fall season begins this month and the board members, as well as the volunteers and event directors, are ready.

“We’re really excited,” said Mesquite Senior Games President Sandy Tudor.

Tudor is also the event director for the first event of the fall season, the men’s softball tournament.

Over the course of 11 days from Oct. 4-14, more than two dozen teams will square off across the six different age brackets, looking to enjoy their time on the diamond while hoping to secure the coveted gold medal.

“Some of the people like to come see the younger ones, but some of them love to come see those 74-year-olds play,” Tudor said as spectators are welcome to watch the action. “It kind of gives them hope. I always post the dates and the times and the age groups that are playing.”

Prior to the scheduled age tournament bracket, Tudor will put the schedule on the group’s Facebook page for those who not only want to know when they are playing but also for those who want to come out and watch the games.

The only hiccup affecting the men’s softball event comes with the 50-plus age bracket on Oct. 6-7.

It just so happens that there is another men’s softball event for the 50-plus age teams in Las Vegas at the same as Tudor’s tournament.

“We’ve had some challenges because the (Senior Softball USA group), which based out of California, is running their 50-year-old division the same time I am,” Tudor said. “I’m having some challenges getting more than three teams, but that’s okay. I told the three teams ‘We’ll play a couple Round Robins, and everybody else get to play a lot of games, and that’s what they’re here for.’”

After softball, the Mesquite Senior Games then turns its attention to the golf tournament, which is slated for Nov. 5 at Coyote Willows Golf Course.

Through Sept. 21, Tudor said the tournament is three-quarters full, which means there are about 55 players signed up with six weeks left before the event.

Preparations remain ongoing for the golf tournament, including the logistics beyond the golf itself.

Following the tournament, the Mesquite Senior Games is organizing a raffle, with support from different local businesses.

“We picked up four or five raffle prizes,” Tudor said. “We’re still just getting started, looking for some raffle prizes. We always do a pretty good raffle at golf.”

The women’s softball tournament does not do a raffle with prizes, but a similar fundraiser. Instead, they do a 50/50 raffle where the winner receives half of the purse, and the other half goes to support the Mesquite Senior Games.

“One of the things we have to do for that is we have to get a gaming license through the state of Nevada,” Tudor said to have a 50/50 raffle. “So, that’s one of the first things the board does the beginning of every year, is renew our gaming license. There’s no cost for it. It’s just something you have to have. So, we do that for softball and the guys are really into that.”

The third and final event is the bowling event, which is scheduled for Dec. 6. More information, including when the registration will open, will come next month.

One of the things that are in good position right now is volunteers and the needed help for the three events.

Prior to the men’s softball event, the Mesquite Senior Games ran the concession stands at the Silver State Pickleball Tournament from Sept. 29-Oct. 1.

One of the things they sold is their standout breakfast sandwich.

“Our concession stand is pretty famous,” Tudor said. “We do a breakfast sandwich that people just die for it. Everybody’s very happy to help with that.”

In addition to the fall season, the Mesquite Senior Games has been preparing for the 2026 Spring Season. Next year also marks the 25th anniversary of the Mesquite Senior Games, so they are ensuring everything goes their way with preparation now.

Over the last couple of months, Tudor and the board of directors have been making sure the venues for each event are locked in.

“There are places that we have to get the venue locked in before we can do anything else,” Tudor said. “(Track and Field, for example), has to be a time when, (Virgin Valley High School) is running, when they’re not on break, and when they don’t have a local track meet scheduled.”

In addition to scheduling venues, the Mesquite Senior Games is also looking for new event directors to lead four events in the spring. Those four events are Table Tennis, Basketball Skills, Track and Field and Fitness Hike.

Tudor said some experience is needed to run the fitness hike while the other three will be mostly based on following what has been done in the past.

“We’ve had these long enough that you can go into our dropbox account and you can see what we need to do and how we need to do it, and how the scoring goes,” she said. “So, it’s not a matter of being really proficient in that event, although the fitness hike, I really do need somebody who understands and knows the fitness trails and stuff.”

So far, Board Member and Sports Director Shawn Edwards has been reaching out to find event directors to broaden the amount of help at a board and event director level.

“We try not to have our event directors be our board members,” Tudor said. “We want outside participation. So, we’re locking that down right now, and Shawn’s doing a great job on talking to people and getting event directors for the various events.”

According to the 2024 Mesquite Fire and Rescue's annual report, there are around 60 people on staff, ranging from the Fire Chief to a Paramedic Firefighter and all at different stages of experience and age.

As a result, this program is a pathway to supplanting those numbers and keeping the number on staff stable.

"Giving these kids the opportunity to do this, we can then start to grow our fire department," Ceja said. "We will be needing more paramedics in the future, more firefighters in the future, as we retire. Having the kids that are here locally that know the type of population we have, the types of build that we have, are also beneficial to us, so recruiting is also good for us."

In addition, with these kids growing up in Mesquite and in the Virgin Valley, the experience of knowing the community can go a long way, even before joining the fire staff.

That includes knowing the terrain as well as understanding certain medical response topics, such as CPR, from this program.

"Being able to recruit kids from the valley is great," Ceja said. "At the same time, keeping kids out of potentially bad habits or other things that can get them hurt is also great. Teaching the kids about fire safety while we're doing all this, and then they potentially teaching someone else about what to do in case of like medical emergency or fire emergency, which keeps the rest of the community even safer."

"The mayor got up and spoke about his grandma, spoke about his mom, and spoke about a lot of things that the women in his life and how he's been able to orchestrate him as the person he is today," Laub said. "If you look at those things and you bring that into your own life, 'What is my mom doing? What was my grandma doing? And what have they gone through to really set forth precedent of how strong women are.'"

Both Laub and Whipple have daughters and realize how important an event like this impacts them, representing the future generations of women to come.

"I have four daughters as well as my wife," Whipple said. "The opportunities that they have that they can fend for themselves and be successful. My oldest daughter is a college graduate. My wife's a college graduate. My second daughter is on her way. Then the other two are still in middle school and high school, but the opportunities that are there for them, It means a lot for me.

"Anne Martin and the rest of those women 100 years ago were so instrumental in providing these opportunities that they enjoy now that also I get a benefit now for my girls and my wife."

Laub added how he lets his daughter attend some of these events with him because of the impact she can learn from them.

"I have a daughter that's 15 years old," Laub said. "I take her to some of these events with me, just to let her listen. I think having those women as figure heads even teaches my daughter a lot that, 'Hey, you can do great things.'"

"For my daughter to see those things, I think it really helps her understand that being a woman is extremely powerful."

The Anne Martin Plaque is part of the Women's Suffrage Plaza that was unveiled in 2020, honoring the centennial of women getting the right to vote in 1920.

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Fall into the right Medicare plan

From your local professionals at Financial Concepts Retirement Planning

Join our next seminar - Medicare 101 on Oct. 14 at 3p.m. Call 702-346-7025 to RSVP and get more details

Every October, as the temperatures finally cool down across Mesquite, St. George, and the surrounding communities, there's a quiet moment we always look forward to.

It's when we sit down with our planners, a warm drink, and start thinking about the year ahead. Not just holidays and family plans, but something a bit less exciting but just as important: Medicare Open Enrollment.

We've had the privilege of helping folks in Mesquite and the surrounding areas navigate Medicare for over 29 years now, and if there's one thing we've learned, it's that this time of year can sneak up on us.

Between fall events, family visits, and just day-to-day life, Open Enrollment sometimes gets pushed to the bottom of the list.

But here's the thing, it matters. Not in a scary, overwhelming way. In a "let's make sure you're still covered for what you need next year" kind of way.

Just last fall, we met with a longtime client, who'd been on the same plan for years. She almost skipped her review appointment because she said, "It's been working fine."

But when we looked a little closer, we found her medication costs were set to increase by over $900 for the year. A simple switch to a new plan saved her that money and kept her doctor in network. All because she took 30 minutes to check in.

That's the kind of thing that happens every fall. Sometimes nothing needs to change, but sometimes? A small tweak makes a big difference.

SO, WHAT SHOULD YOU DO?

Here's what we usually recommend to clients, friends, and family:

Pull out your Annual Notice of Change (ANOC)

It's worth glancing at—this one letter can tell you if your plan is changing next year.

Make a list of your doctors and medications

It helps when comparing plans to make sure everything important is still covered.

Ask for help if you need it

That's what we're here for. No cost, no pressure. Just someone local who can sit with you and talk through your options, plain and simple.

YOU'RE NOT ALONE IN THIS

If you're anything like most of the wonderful folks we've met here in the Southwest, you're independent. You like to handle things yourself.

But even independent people deserve support sometimes. Open Enrollment isn't about switching for the sake of switching.

It's about making sure your plan is still working for you, not the other way around.

So before the season speeds up and the year winds down, give your coverage a quick check. It might be a simple conversation, or it might lead to some real savings.

Either way, we're here for it and for you.

We do not offer every plan available in your area. Currently we represent 12 organizations which offer 57 products in your area. Please contact Medicare.gov, 1-800-MEDICARE, or your local State Health Insurance Program (SHIP) to get information on all of your options.

The purpose of the law is redemptive preparation

By Chris Wall

The Bible's primary goal is to communicate the person of the Lord Jesus Christ. From this comes the necessity of salvation—but it is necessary that a man first understand his need before he humbles himself to receive it.

The person who is unaware of his sickness is in no rush for a cure. Only when we grasp the danger and severity of our sin do we begin to seek the remedy—and that answer, of course, is found in the gospel.

Thus, the purpose of Scripture, and especially of the law, is to expose our sin and reveal our desperate need for Christ.

Consider the man who boasts of his own righteousness: "I have done much good. My charitable giving is significant. I strive to be a kind neighbor. I attend to my religious duties. I care for my family."

All these self-made merits excuse his conscience from feeling his need for an external Savior—namely, the Lord Jesus Christ.

Yet Scripture strips away such false security, leaving no room for assurance in the self-righteous. Instead, it condemns him, showing that even our best works are as filthy rags (Isa. 64:6).

The law's ultimate theological function, then, is redemptive preparation: it locks us up under sin so that only the promise, by faith in Christ, can set us free. Sometimes one must know the depths of despair to truly appreciate the glories of deliverance. And this is what the gospel provides: it places us in the trench of our guilt, only to lift us to the heavenly courts where we hear the triumphant word—though our sin may be great, our Savior's love is greater still. He washes all who trust in Him whiter than snow.

The law is a mirror, exposing all our blemishes and corruption. The gospel is the cure, applied by the hand of the Great Physician, our Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. Do you understand your need today? If so, call on the Lord Jesus Christ to save your soul. Understand that He lived the life you never could, died the death you deserved to die, and was bodily resurrected on the third day to save all who place their faith in Him!
